- b. Viewing, downloading, copying, printing and saving individual articles
- c. Using e-resources for scholarly, educational or scientific research, teaching, private study and clinical purposes
- d. Sending a copy of an article to another authorized user (i.e. current faculty, students or staff)
- e. Posting the URL to the publisher's version of the article on a class website (publisher links will allow only authorized users access)

5. What is not permitted ?

- a. Systematic downloading or printing of entire journal issues or volumes, or large portions of other e-resources is not permitted
- b. Using e-resources for commercial gain is not permitted (i.e. reselling, redistributing or republishing licensed content)
- c. Transmitting, disseminating or otherwise making online content available to unauthorized users (i.e. sending to mailing lists or electronic bulletin boards) is not permitted.
- d. Posting the publisher's version or PDF of an article to an open class website is not permitted (instead, post the URL to the article which will allow only authorized users access)

6. What Happens if the License is Violated?

Publishers track the use of their electronic resources in terms of number of downloads made by subscribing institution. Misuse, if any, is notified to the subscribing institution with details of kinds of violations and institution is expected to take action. The publisher also suspends the access to e-resource pending suitable action by subscribing institution. The access is stopped not only for journals where licence agreement was violated but for all journals by the same publisher. Moreover, the access is suspended not only for the individual violator but for the entire institution.

7. What caution you need to take

The INFLIBNET Consortium subscribes to thousands of electronic journals including full-text electronic resources and bibliographic databases for its member institutions. All electronic resources available through the Consortium are governed by license agreements. The terms and conditions for using these resources are spelled out in license agreements that are signed with each publisher by the INFLIBNET Consortium on behalf of its member institutions. The licenses for electronic resources impose two types of restrictions on its usage, namely i) who can use these resources; and ii) how the resources can be used. The first restriction defines authorized users for e-resources, which generally includes students, faculty, staff and onsite visitors of a subscribing institution. The second restriction deals with how these resources can be used.

It is the responsibility of individual users to ensure that e-resources are used for personal, educational and research purposes only.
